Market Review

The S&P/ASX 200 Accumulation Index rallied +2.6% over the month, taking the recovery over the quarter to +16.5%. From the depths of the COVID-19 led market drawdown in March, the sharp recovery has exceeded most investors expectations. Unprecedented government stimulus programs, low and supportive cash rate settings and a successful virus suppression strategy have helped the Australian stock market and investor sentiment recover significantly. Given the government lifelines in place for households and businesses, investors are looking ahead to determine which corporates will be able to thrive and which will come under further pressure. Companies with strong balance sheets, strong market positions and strong management teams will be able to take advantage of opportunities that arise in the future. Company "reporting season" begins in August and we expect July to be a volatile period with companies providing trading updates and financial guidance ahead of reporting in August.

Over the quarter the top three moves within the Index were Afterpay (+224.4%) which continues to perform strongly as the platform reached over 9.9m active users during the quarter, AP Eagers (+122.8%) was supported by rising new vehicle sales which lifted to 110,234 in June from 59,894 in May and Nearmap (+99.1%) pleased investors with growth in its annualised contract value to over $102 million. The bottom Index performers were Whitehaven Coal (-25.7%) which has been impacted by weak metallurgical and thermal coal prices, Nufarm (-19.8%) which published a soft trading update and Metcash (-13.7%) which underperformed the market after raising capital in April.

S&P/ASX 200 Top & Bottom performing sectors for the quarter ending 30 June:

The best performing sectors in the S&P/ASX200 Accumulation Index for the quarter were Software & Services (+48.7%), Media & Entertainment (+42.7%), Consumer Durables & Apparel (+34.8%), Retailing (+33.7%) and Diversified Financials (+29.8%). The worst performing sectors included Pharmaceuticals & Biotechnology (-3.4%), Insurance (+2.0%), Telecommunication Services (+5.0%), Utilities (+5.5%) and Household & Personal Products (+6.9%).

S&P/ASX200 Top & Bottom performing stocks for the quarter ending 30 June:

The top 5 performing stocks in the S&P/ASX200 Accumulation Index for the quarter were Afterpay Limited (+224.4%), AP Eagers Limited (+122.8%), Nearmap Limited (+99.1%), Perenti Global Limited (+89.3%) and Boral Limited (+84.9%). The bottom 5 performers included Whitehaven Coal Limited (-25.7%), Mesoblast Limited (-21.5%), Nufarm Limited (-19.8%), Metcash Limited (-13.7%) and Cooper Energy Limited (-11.8%).

Market Outlook

From the depths of the Australian market in March to the current point in time we have seen an incredibly sharp recovery, continually doubted by many market participants. The measures in place to "flatten the curve" have resulted in one of the best health outcomes globally. These government-imposed restrictions on activity have driven a sharp contraction in economic activity and to assist, Australia has been granted the second highest level of stimulus per head of population when comparing on a global basis.

Although the risk of the virus spread in Australia remains elevated (particularly in Victoria), the improving virus management combined with the large economic stimulus has given investors' confidence that corporates and households will be able to successfully 'build a bridge' through this period of uncertainty. This remains unprecedented times, with a significant level of both fiscal and monetary stimulus and support in place. We are not predicting the path to recovery from here – 'V' shaped, 'L' shaped, 'W' shaped or 'Tick' shaped as this is not our area of expertise. We remain convinced that this crisis, like crises past, will end.

This environment of uncertainty creates significant opportunities for stock selection. The August reporting season and the lead up to the reporting season are expected to be volatile. We expect companies with strong balance sheets, strong market positions and strong management teams will be able to take advantage of opportunities that arise in the future. As we progress through this environment, our investment process remains unchanged. Our focus on balance sheet strength remains intense, as we stress test the ability of companies to withstand unprecedented times.
